Good morning IS201! It's Connor Moy from class 618 speaking to you on this Motivational Monday, on behalf of the SEAL Team.

Yesterday marks the 120th years since the Wright Brothers successfully flew an airplane. It was a first in human history. And I want to share with you a quote that will bring some words of encouragement to start off this week motivated. According to Henry Ford, "When everything seems to be going against you, remember that the airplane takes off against the wind, not with." This quote serves as a reminder to all of us that obstacles and hardships are not meant to stop us from reaching our goals, but rather to push us forward. It took the Wright Brothers 4 years, or 1461 days, and 8 crashed planes, before they successfully had their first flight. May the airplanes and the Wright Brothers serve as your reminder to soar high and chase for your dreams. The Wright Brothers flew right through the screen of impossibility. Never back down from obstacles and remember to reach for the skies.
