Good Morning I.S.201! My name is Esther Chen from class 852, and I am here for the Words of Wisdom Wednesday on behalf of the S.E.A.L team.

Today is World Art Day, which is a reminder that creativity isn't just about being talented — it's about expressing yourself in your own way. Art can show up in a lot of forms, like music, drawing, writing, or even how you design something. It's just another way people communicate what they're thinking.

Not everything needs to be said out loud. Sometimes people use creativity to show ideas or emotions they can't easily explain. That's why it's important to respect different styles and perspectives, even if you don't fully understand them.

You also don't need to be perfect at something for it to matter. Trying something creative, even in a simple way, still counts. What matters is that it's your own. Today is just a reminder to be open to creativity, whether it's your own or someone else's.

Like Leonardo da Vinci, today's affirmation is: "I value both thinking and doing."

Thank you for listening and have a World Creativity Wednesday 😊
